Welcome!

Welcome to the first quarterly newsletter for the ADTA! We are so excited to launch both this newsletter and our new website. If you have not joined already, we encourage you to become a member of the ADTA! Members enjoy access to exclusive continuing education courses, member only events, job postings, work group and committee opportunities, social networking and a membership directory. Membership opportunities have also been expanded to include not only dental therapists but allies of dental therapy, organizations that support dental therapy, dental therapy students, and honorary members. We invite you to explore the membership opportunities available and join us in promoting and advocating for oral health equity!

Letter from the President

Dear Dental Therapy Community,

I'm so happy to be writing to you today, as I catch my breath from the whirlwind of activity and accomplishments these past few months. We have come a long way and I wanted to provide an update as my term approaches its end and I pass the baton to Sarah Chagnon, the incoming 2023...

In a new CareQuest Institute blog post, Dr. Jeremy Horst, Director of Clinical Innovation at CareQuest Innovation Partners, a for-profit subsidiary of CareQuest Institute, discusses the recent AMA approval of a new procedure code for the application of silver diamine fluoride (SDF) by medical professionals to arrest cavities. As one of the authors of the code, Dr. Horst explains why this is a milestone in medical-dental integration, what's next for patients, dental and medical providers, and how this expands access to care and oral health equity.
